Applicable To: Licensed Day Care Centers

Question:

If a licensed day care center plans to expand and open another day care program in a remote part of the same building, is the licensee required to file an application for a different license for the new program?

Response:

If a day care center licensee is expanding its day care program to another part of a building in which it is currently licensed, the licensee does not require a separate license for the expanded area. The new areas to be used for children would need to be inspected and the current license amended to include the newly licensed areas.
